In the current value-based healthcare environment, perioperative leaders must recognize the importance of integrating practices that support deliberative collaborative interprofessional practice, team engagement and the diversity that exists among surgical team members into the organizational infrastructure for perioperative services. The focus is thereby on meeting the needs of consumers of surgical care, enhancing work satisfaction among members of the surgical team, improving team efficiency, and contributing to the fiscal health and viability of the healthcare agency ¹⁾.
